Banahaw still closed to trekkers, open to pilgrims

By Delfin T. Mallari Jr.

and Kristine L. Alave

LARGE areas of Mt. Banahaw will remain closed to trekkers for another three years, as the mountain has yet to fully recover from environmental degradation, but officials are keeping certain areas open to pilgrimages and other religious activities this Holy Week.

The Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) has reported that Mt. Banahaw, the tallest mountain in the Calabarzon (Cavite, Laguna, Batangas, Rizal, Quezon) region and considered a holy, mystical site, has shown signs of improvement after a respite of seven years from ecological disturbances such as pollution and incessant hiking.

Encouraged by the improvements, the Protected Area Management Board (PAMB) for Mts. Banahaw and San Cristobal Protected Landscape (MBSCPL) has decided to extend the closure for another three years, or until 2015, to give the mountain sufficient time to recover.

This Holy Week, however, pilgrimage to the mountain will be allowed, though confined to designated areas. The PAMB will charge pilgrims a fee of P50 for access to those areas.

Lenten holiday OK but don't forget Easter, Church tells faithful

By Jocelyn R. Uy

NOTHING wrong with going on holiday during Holy Week, escaping to the beach or spending entire days watching movies—as long as these have a religious theme. But don't miss hearing Mass on Easter Sunday.

This is how some Catholic prelates are attempting to reconcile the modern-day Filipino practice of using the long Semana Santa break to relax and unwind, leaving the city for the nearest beach or resort, and all but forsaking the solemn religious observances of the season.

"There's no rule in the Church that says you can't take a vacation during the Holy Week because it is also a time to unwind with the family and exchange stories with one another," said Msgr. Hernando Coronel, rector of San Carlos Seminary in Makati City.

Spending time with the family is also one way of pulling oneself away from materialism and individualism, which is also a message embodied by

A NO-FLY and no-seafaring zone will be declared over a wide area off northern Luzon from April 12 to 16 when North Korea is scheduled to launch a long-range missile.

Between 5 a.m. and 1 p.m. during the period, all kinds of aircraft, sea vessels and even small fishing boats are prohibited from an area 190 nautical miles (352 kilometers) northeast of Sta. Ana, Cagayan, and 150 nautical miles (278 km) east of Polillo Island, Quezon. (See map on Page A4.)

The area falls under the flight path announced by North Korea for its missile launch.

Asean wants int'l sanctions on Burma lifted

By Christine O. Avendaño

PHNOM PENH—Southeast Asian leaders on Tuesday called for the lifting of international sanctions on Burma after the country's historic by-elections, a senior Cambodian official said at a regional summit here.

Leaders of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (Asean) "call for the lifting of all sanctions on Myanmar (Burma)," Cambodian Secretary of State Kao Kim Hourn told reporters on the sidelines of the Asean leaders' summit.

"The lifting of sanctions would contribute positively to the democratic process and especially economic development of Myanmar," he said, quoting leaders inside the closed-door summit room.

Girl to leave street where she has lived for 18 years

ROSALI MORENDE has spent all of her 18 years growing up on Paterno Street in Manila's Quiapo district. It has been a life of hard knocks. Her family has no house, just a lean-to on the sidewalk. A high school student, she studies her lessons at night under the streetlight or by candlelight. She gets up early in the morning to take a bath on the street. Before going to school, she helps her mother sell candies, cigarettes, snacks and religious items on the sidewalk.

BUILDING BRIDGES ACROSS TWO COUNTRIES

"I want to say thank you to SM for all your help in making Earth Hour happen here in the Philippines and even in China but more important than that, I want to thank you for taking the Earth Hour beyond the hour." – Andy Ridley, Executive Director and Co-Founder of Earth Hour. Also shown in photo are (from left to right) SM's Jojo Navarro, Miguel Cuunjieng, Chito Baluyot, and Rolly Magdaong.

The SM Supermalls – forty two in the Philippines and four in China – made the switch and joined in the Earth Hour celebrations on Saturday, March 31, 2012.

For one hour – 8:30 to 9:30 PM – the SM Malls, along with millions of Filipinos and the rest of the world, took part in this symbolic movement to help save the earth and make a stand against global warming.

By making this commitment, the SM Malls showed how this year's Earth Hour theme "I Will If You Will" could inspire people across borders and cultures through performances, pledges, and environmental activities.

SM's main Earth Hour event was held at the SM Mall of Asia, with music from singer-songwriter Joey Ayala, and poet Joys and percussion performances artist Jose Paul Zialcita, who is known for using recycled materials as instruments. Greenpeace Ambassador Cipriani Lucia Rivas hosted the event.

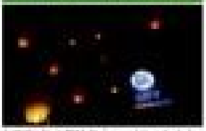

Other premiere malls also made the switch: SM City North EDSA had flying lanterns and the music of the Bagonbo drumbeaters; SM Megamall had an acoustic performance by Noy Volante, and The Podium had a performance by world music singer Cynthia Alexander and jazz guitarist Johnny Alegre.

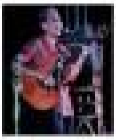

SM City Davao, on the other hand, was one of three major venues in the Philippines where Earth Hour was launched. Earth Hour Executive Director and Co-Founder Andy Ridley sent his message to audiences via streaming, while a flash mob and Earth Hour dances were performed.

Earth Hour first started in Sydney, Australia last 2007. From a single city initiative, it has since developed into a 5,251 city international movement, reaching 1.8 billion people in 135 countries around the globe.

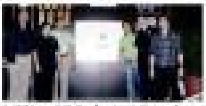

The Earth Hour is an annual event of the SM Supermalls through the Environmental Committee of SM Cares in collaboration with the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) Philippines, the world's biggest independent conservation institution.

I WALKED IN at the chi-chi 7th High Club in Bonifacio City, dahlings, and was dazzled by the gorgeous women with silky straight hair who walked the black—yes, dahlings, black—carpet. One of the country's number one conditioners, Cream Silk, chose a glam bash to launch "Perfection" by Cream Silk, the new top specialist range developed to "prolong the full-bodied beauty of salon-straightened hair."

This exclusive event attended by TV personalities, models, designers and hairstylists carried the theme "Perfection."

All there was the Cream Silk rah-rah team led by marketing manager Anna Mangilin, senior brand manager Vic Gutierrez, PR and events manager Nikki Abella and assistant brand manager Sarah Lim.

The event rolled on, pakinggan, upon the introduction of the brand's newest endorser, "it" girl, the gorgeous Georgina Wilson. Georgina explained that "the new Perfection by Cream Silk features a superior technology called Pro-technology which makes salon-straightened hair look full-bodied and silky for a longer time."

That brought wild applause and whistles. I didn't know if it was for Georgina or for Perfection, the hoopla that night. I can rightfully say it was for both, dahlings!

Right upon that, the guests began endlessly tweeting about "#perfection" and uploading photos on Facebook, naturellement, di ba?

a-listers in fashion and society to witness the finale collection of this year's Mega Young Designers Competition (YDC).

"This competition has started the career of some of the Philippines' top designers and is still continuing the search for the newest designers worthy to be the new big fashion icons," said Mega founder and editor in chief, adorable Sari Yap.

"I believe in tradition. We started it in 1994. It was to create a platform to discover new talent. Back then, to break into the fashion industry was very difficult and there were very few avenues to generate buzz. Today, there are so many fashion schools and designing has become a go-to career for a lot of young people. Although the fashion industry is not as difficult as before, we still wanted to find these stars and mark them the right skills."

The Mega 20th year anniversary was an elbow-to-elbow crowd of famous people in the NBC Tent in Bonifacio, pakinggan.

Gorgeous Sara Mabe welcomed the guests, then a video showed 20 years of Mega, narrated by no less than Sari Yap. We were enjoying the dinner buffet while sipping chilled champagne, natch!

11th Grand Wine Experience

April 12 marks another successful year for the "Grand Wine Experience," the ultimate gastronomic happening. Following this year's theme "Extreme!" had the place, of outstanding wineries and distilleries serving their wall complemented with scrumptious cuisine prepared by the talented chefs and head chef Meli Bearmore of Marriott Hotel, Newport City.

The 11th edition of Southeast Asia's biggest and most sophisticated wine and spirits tasting event at Marriott Hotel's Grand Ballroom had over 1,500 guests, surpassing the previous year's 1,200—a long way from the 350 who attended the first-ever Grand Wine Experience 11 years ago.

Presented by the renowned Ralph's Wines and Spirits and Philippine Wine Merchants Inc., with over 500 different wines and selection of high-end spirits, the event was attended by the town's movers and shakers who came to "celebrate life."

Kicking it off were Ham Montenegro and Johnny Revilla, the emcees, with co-hosts Richi Joseph and Joan Cabantan. They asked the four Joseph brothers, Robert, Ralph, Ronald and Raymond, the awesome men who started it all, to make their ceremonial toast, pakinggan.

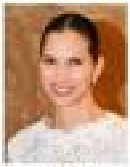

Marriott Hotel's F&B director Matthias Wisler and GM Richard Soal saw to it that food would be in abundance.

With more tourists coming, thanks to DOT, PAL, Air Philippines, Etihad Airways and their Grand Cru, the grander Grand Wine Experience this year is one more reason to celebrate in the summer! Di ba, pakinggan?

Sponsors were Moet-Hennessy Asia Pacific, Bacchus and Golden Wines, Corporate Shopwise and Rustan's Supermarket Inc., among others.

The next Grand Wine Experience is on Nov. 16 at Marriott Hotel Grand Ballroom, themed "Full Expression!"
